

Turkish Coffee & Coffee Ground Reading

Turkish coffee, frequently drunk around the Mediterranean, is brewed by boiling coffee grounds in a small copper pot. Because of this, the coffee grounds are included in a cup of Turkish coffee. The grounds or sediment, left in the bottom of a cup, can be flipped over onto the saucer, wished on, and read to tell the drinker about their future.